

Formosan

blue magpie

A Formosan blue magpie's beak and feet are red.

It has 12 tail feathers, all the tail feathers are long and white.

 flamingo

A flamingo's beak are black and red, and their feet are red.

Their beaks are very sharp.

Swan

This is a swan

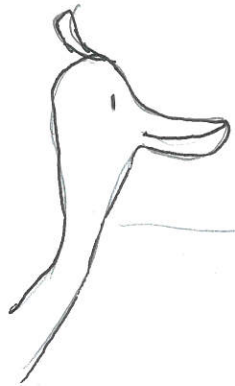

Its feet look like these →

They can let the swan swim easier.
They

Its beak looks cute!

they beak shape like a spoon.

Penguin

Penguins live in cold place.

They beak shape like triangle
They are usually white and black.

Their feet are made to swim.

They can catch fish
in the water.

Seagull

Seagulls live by the sea.

They have sharp feet to help them catch fish.

Seagulls' beaks are short.

Crow

Crows are very common birds in the city.

They're all black, even their beaks and feet.

Crows' beaks are sharp, so they can use them to pick food.

Chelsea

This is a hummingbird.

A hummingbird's beak is shaped like a needle.

Its beak is good for sucking nectar.

A hummingbird's feet have claws.

Its feet are good for holding the branch.

→ hummingbird

vulture

A vulture's beak is shaped like a hook.

Its beak is good for tear meat.

A vulture's feet have claws.

Its feet are good for holding food.

This is a kingfisher.

A kingfisher's beak is shaped like a wedge.

It uses its beak to catch fish.

A kingfisher's feet have claws.

Its feet are good for holding onto branches.

This is a rooster.

A rooster's beak is shaped like a hook.

It uses its beak to eat cereals.

A rooster's feet have claws.

Its feet are good for grabbing the ground.

This is an owl.

An owl's beak is shaped like a hook.

It uses its beak to tear meat.

An owl's feet have claws.

Its feet are good for catching and holding food.

This is an ostrich

An ostrich's beak is shaped like a wedge.

It uses its beak to eat food.

An ostrich's feet have claws.

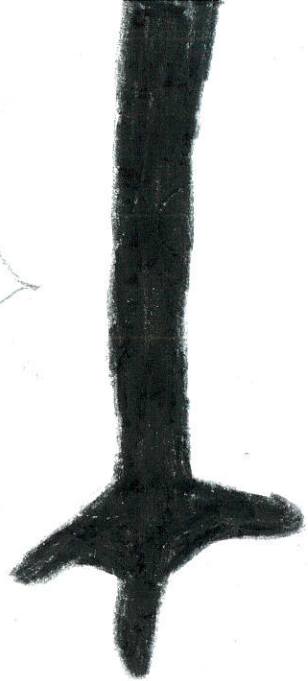

Its feet are good for running.

Max

by Abby

resistance = 阻力 half webbed = 半蹼

Black-faced spoonbill

I'm a Black-faced spoonbill.

My beak is long and flat,
shaped like a spoon.

I use my beak to catch fish,

It can move quickly in the water, because its long, flat shape gets less water resistance.

I have half webbed feet.

My feet can help me
walk easily in mud or shallow water.

by Abby

Sparrow

I'm a sparrow.

My beak is shaped like a plier. I use my beak to eat worms and seeds.

My feet has no joints.

So I can't walk, but I can jump cutely.

joint = 關節

plier = 鉗子

Muller's barbet

This is a muller's barbet.

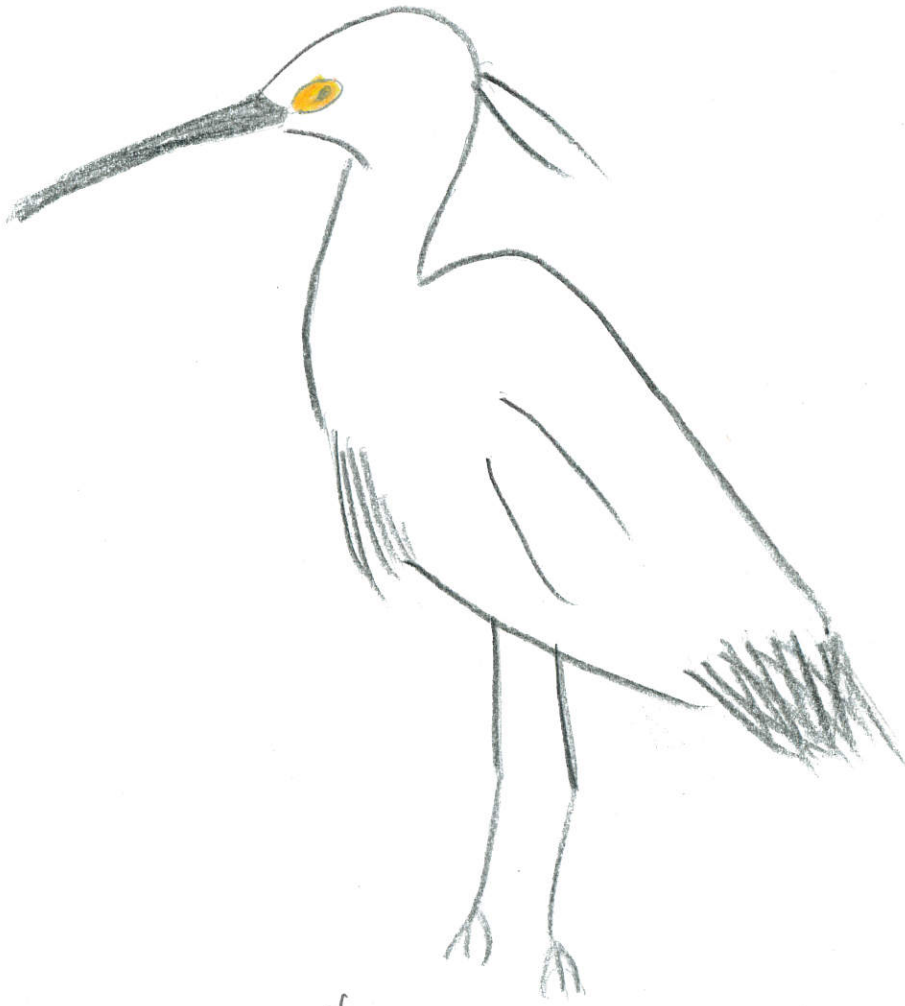

A muller's barbet's beak is shaped like a long conic. It uses its beak to peck wood.

A muller's barbet has paw feet.

Its feet are good for grasping the branches firmly.

egret

This is an egret.

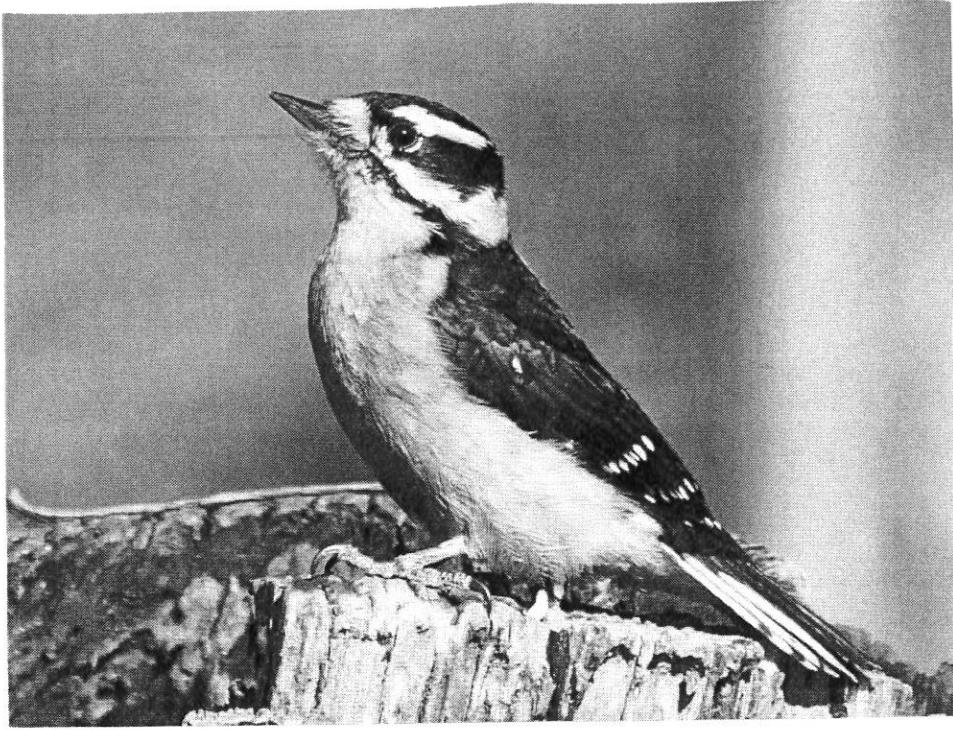

An egret's beak is shaped like a spear.

It uses its beak to get food.

An egret's feet have long thin toes.

Its feet are good for standing in shallow water.

Woodpecker

A woodpecker's beak is shaped like a long ruler.

Its beak is good for pecking the tree trunks.

A woodpecker's feet are shaped like hooks.

Its feet are good for holding on the tree.

Dove

A dove's beak is shaped like a big needle.

A dove's feet have small paws.

A turkey's beak is shaped like a knife.

It uses its beak to eat food.

A turkey's feet just like a fork.

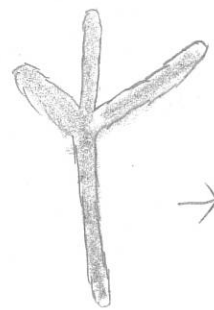

Its feet are good for running.

Turkey

Nightingale

A nightingale's beak is shaped like a pencil.

It uses its beak to eat mosquitoes
mosquitoes

→ nightingale's feet

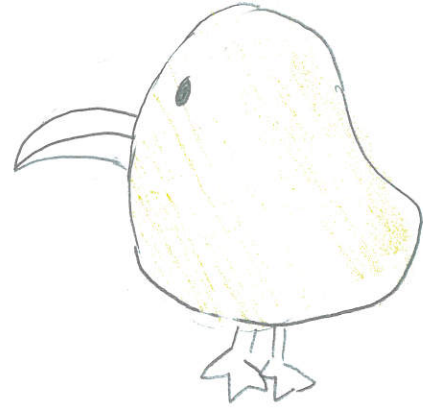

A nightingale's feet <sup>look</sup> just like branches.

Its feet are good for holding a branch.

The kiwi bird's beak is shaped like a machete.
It's good for pecking bugs.

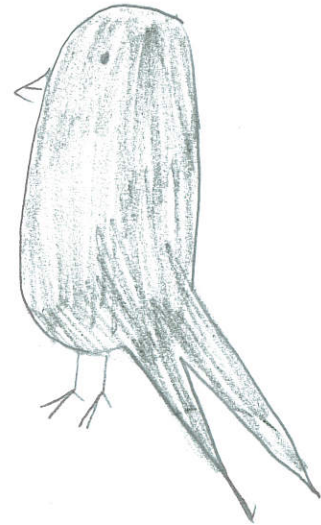

The kiwi bird feet are very fat.
They're good for standing on the ground.

The swallow's beak is shaped like a cover.

The swallow's feet have long toes.

They're good for holding on the branch.

heron

- beak:

A heron's beak is shaped like a spear.

- feet:

Its feet is good for standing on the stone.

Crane

- beak :

A crane's beak is shaped like a nail.

- feet :

Its feet is good for walking on land.

